New York, Oct. 30, 1854.

DEAR SIM—In reading the article headed "Our Paris Gorrespondence," published in your paper of this date, I fully concur with its sentiments, with the exception, however, of the last paragraph, in which it is stated, that so far as Billewart Salmon's wine is concerned, your correspondent doubts very much if it has been introduced to the American public. I beg leave, dear sir, to correct the error, and would thank you to publish this letter in the columns of your valuable paper, stating that Mr. Billeuart Salmon's wine has been introduced here marrly a year since, and can be found in all the first class hotels or restaurants in the United States. Very respectfully, your obedient servant.

Resolved, That the present crisis is one which calls for the united efforts of every true lover of the constitution of his State; and the election of Horatio Seymour, stamping, as it must, the character of New York with the broad seal of constitutional, and vindicating it from the assaults of the faise, the disaffected, and the factious, will be a triumph of no ordinary character; standing upon the single issue of fidelity to the constitution and the laws. Resolved, That in John McLeod Murphy, our candidate for Congress, we are so happy as to present for the suffragues of his fellow citizens, a man worthy to share in the victory of Horatio Seymour ever intolerance, bigotry, and all the evil passions which have been called upon to and in the destruction of the constitution and the laws.
